What's New In?

Desktop Cover is a simple utility that allows you to cover up the window used to see your desktop. By using this application you can: Preview a document on your desktop Activate your host file Unhide an application Create a new application to auto startup List all windows you want to cover ...more This is a good desktop program. If you were interested in having the desktop be completely blank, but have multiple screens showing at once, this works well. The problem I have found is that the window list view is rather clumsy. You have to click and drag to select windows. There is no touch screen recognition. On the Windows 8.1 machine I have used it on, it doesn't even recognize an empty desktop to a.) click on to select and b.) to drag to. The program also creates a program to trigger a webcam application. When you are done using the webcam...more Great program. Does the job perfectly. I have been trying to find a replacement for Microsoft's "one-click" AutoDesk's 3D Perspective Viewer. Works great! I downloaded the software but am still looking for an easy way to open the program other than the only option, opening it via Start Menu. It is my opinion that this software is only for advanced users. A working knowledge of 3D modelling and animation is required before using this program. ...more I am a fan of the way this software works and I'm hoping it will advance to the next version someday. If you use it, please recommend it to others. I have had many requests for an equivalent, and none of them came close to this package. It does exactly what I want it to do and it makes it extremely easy to use. It even has very good instructions. The only thing that doesn't work for me is the lack of a right-click on files. I think it's also one reason I haven't recommended it to others yet, because it's so well thought out, I want to show it...more This software is so cool, I immediately renamed my application from Desktop Screen to Desktop Cover. I use it to hide the actual desktop, and showing it from times to times. It's really very simple to use, and it's exactly what I have been looking for. I use it at night, when I am shutting my computer down, and I always forget to turn the monitor off. Then when I wake up in the
